The early years of Wasatch County were years of wildest romance and adventure. The purpose of the first settlers to establish a homestead in a forbidding area was memorable. In the main these early people were not farmers, but good farmers they became. They were not military men but soldiers they had to be. Days were times to be cautious and darkness was a fearsome thing. Every rock or tree or gully was a possible screen for a savage Red Man intent on plunder or murder.

By the spring of 1866 many settlers had joined the 1859-60 people and thriving settlements were established in fertile parts of the valley. If only the Indians had been less warlike the pioneers could have been very happy. Crops had been grown; contrary to first predictions. Stout hearts were determined that Heber Valley also should "blossom as the rose."

On May 1, 1866 several companies of fighting men were mustered into service by Mayor John W. Witt, who was commanding officer of the Wasatch Militia. The County was divided into six divisions with officers to command each section. John Hanfton and Sidney Epperson held the rank of Major. John Crook, David Van Wagoner and Charles H. Wilcken were Battalion Adjts.

As the summer of 1866 advanced more men joined the army while the families from the out-lying places moved into Heber for protection.

upset all teams ranked in front of them, losing to Miami in a close game in the final match.

Last year, Shanna lead the Lady Wasp Volleyball Team to the State Tournament, where they finished third, and Shanna received First Team All-State honors. She has continued to support her team both on and off the court maintaining a positive attitude all year long.

Even when Shanna was hampered by ankle injury she continued to do her best. The Ricks Vikings finished their season with a record of 28-4, the best finish in Viking history.

Next year, Shanna will return to Ricks as the starting power hitter. Congratulations to Shanna and good luck next year.

Georgia Taylor Gardner

Spotlight: Georgia Taylor Gardner was born and raised in Wallburg to Heber and Daisy Taylor, who had four children, Wayne (Jake), Deon, Thelma and Georgia.

They lived in a two room log house, where Georgia slept in the kitchen on a couch that made into a bed at night. She went to school first through eight grades at Wallburg Elementary. Georgia's freshman year was spent at Springville High School. She lived with her grandparents while attending there. Later, she attended Wasatch High School in Heber City.

Georgia married Orval Gardner, a native Wallburg-ite Aug. 15, 1928. He worked construction for years. They had five children, Ellen, Mack, Ida, Clayton and Linda. Orval passed away May 8, 1970. Georgia is a grandmother to eighteen, great-grandmother to 37, and great-great-grandmother to one (soon to be two).

She has been an election judge, Primary teacher, Sunday School teacher, Relief Society teacher, Young Women's counselor, and Relief Society counselor. Georgia loves to knit and crochet (has made over 100 sweaters and afghans). She enjoyed quilting each grandchild a quilt and many friends and relatives were recipients also. Taking pleasure in the out-of-doors, her yard is immaculately groomed. Georgia always enjoyed traveling with Orval on his construction work, as they met and made many friends. Georgia recently attended a family gathering in Fayette, ID, and Pendleton, OR, where she participated in a five generation picture taken as part of the celebration of a great-great-grandchild.
